Saab 9-3 The 9-3 is a family car or compact executive saloon developed by Swedish manufacturer Saab, showcasing some of the company's aeronautical influences. It was first seen on the UK's roads in 1998, before the second generation came along in 2002. Both cars are premium front-wheel drive cars that come in various forms.

The new 9-3 departed from the Saab H / EcoPower engine used previously for a new 2.0 L inline-four engine Ecotec engine from General Motors ' for the petrol-powered models. There are three different versions of the turbocharged inline-four, with the amount of turbo boost determining the power output: 1.8T (112 kW), 2.0T (131 kW) and 2.0T (157 kW).

~~SAAB Petrol or Diesel — Which would be best for you ...~~

Spoiled for choice as part of General Motors, Saab made petrol and diesel 9-3s with outputs from 120hp to 280hp; diesel models use the Fiat MultiJet in both 1.9 8v and 16v forms up to 180hp. Eight-valve single-turbo models (120hp TiD) are generally considered the most reliable, with the 130, 160 and 180hp later twin-turbo 16-valve variants the next choice.

And now as we approach 2019 9-3 is becoming older and less well equipped. Saab were ahead when this car was first launched in 2002 and the face-lift in 2007 dragged it up to date but by the time the last cabriolet rolled off the line in 2014 with its 1.9TTiD engine, it was all a bit behind the times.

The Saab 9-3 saloon is a car styled after an aeroplane. The Saab brand has always appealed to buyers looking for something a little different to the mainstream and the 9-3 is a prime example. It's less obvious than a BMW for instance and has an air of understated style about its looks while still retaining a premium reputation.

The truth is usually somewhere between the two (diesel- petrol) sides. The first generation Saab 9-3 was the first Saab available with a diesel engine, it was 2.2 diesel, and then there were two more versions of the 1.9 JTD aggregate, and we do not forget the 3.0 V6 diesel. All of these engines have some disadvantage, but they are generally very reliable, powerful and economical.
